Yale's New Shell Smashed in Transit

NEW HAVEN, May 20. - Word was received here to-night that Yale's new English shell, ordered by Coach Kirby, who had come here from England to put the finishing touches on the Yale crew, had been damaged in New York while being removed to-day from the transatlantic steamer on which it was shipped to this country.

It is understood that the boat was stove in while being hoisted onto a lighter.

Coach Harriman and the other boating officials sent word to New York to-night to have the boat shipped at once to New Haven.
